Please note our Specialist Nurses will only be able to respond during the hours above.

Ask questions about sex or relationships

Changes to your relationships, loss of sex drive and erectile dysfunction are all common after treatment for prostate cancer. Whatever you (or your partner) want to ask, however it's affecting your sexuality or relationships, our Specialist Nurses are here to help answer your questions - even if they seem embarrassing or awkward. Visit prostatecanceruk.org/sexual-support to complete a referral form to our Sexual support service or call 0800 074 8383.

Speak in your own language

Our telephone translation service can connect you with our Specialist Nurses in over 200 languages. Call 0800 074 8383 and state, in English, the language you need.

Reliable health information

Our award-winning health information is available to read, order or download from our website for free. All our publications are designed to help answer your questions about prostate cancer and other prostate problems. This includes information on tests, treatments, side effects and what to expect.

To order or download our fact sheets and booklets, visit prostatecanceruk.org/publications or speak to our Specialist Nurses.

CONNECT WITH OTHER PEOPLE AFFECTED BY PROSTATE CANCER

Online community

Our online community is a place to talk about whatever's on your mind - your questions, your ups and your downs. Anyone can ask a question or share an experience with like-minded people.

One-to-one support service

Our One-to-one service offers anyone affected by prostate cancer the opportunity to speak to a trained support volunteer over the telephone.

All our volunteers have lived experience of prostate cancer, including different treatments and side effects. We also have volunteers who have supported a loved one through a diagnosis. Our volunteers will listen to your issues and concerns and share their own personal experience to support you.

To find out more or to request a referral, visit prostatecanceruk.org/one-to-one or call our Specialist Nurses on 0800 074 8383.
